

To a Genuine University for Cultivating Talented Health Care Professionals

In April 2020 the Department of Radiological Sciences and the Master course of Nursing were established and we continue the process of further development and evolution.

In April 2020, Morinomiya University of Medical Sciences newly established the Department of Radiological Sciences and the Master course in Nursing Studies. We will evolve into a comprehensive university of medical sciences where one faculty with seven departments, a graduate school and a diploma course of midwifery are gathered on one campus. The unique curricula of a comprehensive university of medical sciences nurture medical professionals with a high level of consciousness, broad knowledge, and superior abilities.
